Side Notes: This has always been one of my favorite melodies. Think about what the title of this song means. The word "charity," is often referred to as "the pure love of Christ." I struggled for many years to understand what this meant. I think I finally learned its meaning while working with the wonderful people of Argentina. To me, you have charity, or the pure love of Christ, when you can look at any person and have the same thoughts and feelings that Christ would have if he were looking at that person through your eyes. What feelings and thoughts do you have towards a stranger... a person in need... or your enemy? What thoughts and feelings would Christ have? It's likely many of us may never achieve this "perfect" love for others at all times, but the world would be much better if everyone at least tried to have charity towards one another.
