SIBERIAN LAMENT

BILLY MAYERL

Andant. espressivo

Piano

The first system of musical notation for 'Siberian Lament' consists of two staves. The upper staff is in treble clef and the lower staff is in bass clef. The time signature is 2/4. The music begins with a piano (p) dynamic. The upper staff features a melodic line with eighth and sixteenth notes, often beamed together. The lower staff provides a harmonic accompaniment with chords and moving bass lines. A large, faint watermark is visible in the background of the page.

The second system of musical notation continues the piece. It maintains the 2/4 time signature and piano (p) dynamic. The melodic line in the upper staff continues with similar rhythmic patterns. The bass line in the lower staff includes some chromatic movement and rests. The watermark remains prominent.

The third system of musical notation shows a change in dynamics to mezzo-forte (mf) and a tempo marking of len. (ritardando). The melodic line in the upper staff features more sustained notes and some accidentals. The bass line continues with complex chordal textures. The watermark is still present.

The fourth system of musical notation continues with the mf dynamic and len. marking. The melodic line in the upper staff shows some chromaticism and rests. The bass line provides a steady accompaniment. The watermark is visible.

The fifth and final system of musical notation concludes the piece. It features a dynamic change to fortissimo (ff) and a tempo marking of rall. (ritardando). The melodic line in the upper staff becomes more active with sixteenth notes. The bass line also becomes more rhythmic. The piece ends with a final chord in the bass staff. The watermark is visible.
