Scherzando from Sonata in C# minor, Hob. XVI:36

7

'This charming piece has both the liveliness and humour of Haydn in the major sections and the solemnity in the minor sections. It is basically a theme and variations, each of which presents its own technical challenges and characterful musical details. The unison parts will need addressing early on to ensure clarity and precision, and there are plenty of scales and arpeggio elements to weave in as the music progresses. Though there is scope for drama and brilliance, on the whole the piece is elegant and light-hearted in appearance. A lovely piece for study!' Melvyn Cooper, London
